KR Narayanan Memorial Lecture

This years KR Narayanan Memorial Lecture organized by CREST was delivered on 4 February 2020 by veteran journalist and author Saeed Naqvi. The lecture , If KR Narayanan Were With Us Today "was held at Hotel Alakapuri Auditorium, Kozhikode. Delivering the lecture he said, the ongoing protests in Indaia against the Citizenship (Amendment) Act has led to the secularization of the Muslim ghetto. Also, the Muslim women up north, who were very timid in coming out of their homes, were now found talking in front of the camera. The CAA followed the Supreme Court verdict that allowed the construction of a Ram Temple in Ayodhya, Mr. Naqvi noted. "The goose that laid the saffron eggs was dead with the court order," he said. "However, the CAA is not working the way they (the National Democratic Alliance government) thought it would," he said. People across the country, irrespective of their religious or community background, were alarmed at the prospect of fishing out documents to prove their ancestry. "The documents from not a small number of people, around 1.2 billion," he said. The protests against it were led by the youth, who had bypassed the political Opposition. "It has spread everywhere... Wherever there are universities and campuses," Mr. Naqvi said. "Please don't believe what the TV channels are saying about the Shaheen Bagh protests, that it is led only by Muslim women... these protests have led to the secularization of the Muslim ghettos," he said. He added that the rulers created a muddle around words such as India-Pakistan, Hindu-Muslim, and New Delhi-Srinagar, so that it could not be solved once and for all. "If you touch one of these issues, it will directly get connected to others so that no solution will emerge," he said. Recalling his friendship with Narayanan, Mr. Naqvi said that he would not have become the President had he been alive today as the social condition in the country had changed now.

Saeed Naqvi, born in Lucknow in 1940, has been a quintessential reporter and foreign correspondent for over four decades. He has travelled the length and breadth of India and visited over a hundred countries in pursuit of stories. He has covered most wars since the 1971 war with Pakistan which resulted in the creation of Bangladesh. Other wars covered include the Sir Lanka Civil War, 1971, Sino-Vietnam war, 1979, US bombing of Libya, 1986, the first coup in Fiji, 1987, Nicaragua war, 1989, Operation Desert Storm, 1991, US occupation of Afghanistan, Iraq, 2003, Syrian civil war, 2011. Saeed has interviewed world statesmen, like Nelson Mandela, Fidel Castro, Muammar Qaddafi, Henry Kissinger, Benazir Bhutto, President Hamid Karzai, Shimon Peres, Yitzhak Rabin, J.R. Jayawardene, President Hashemi Rafsanjani and scores of others. His writings, lecture tours and short films on India's composite culture have been path breaking efforts, as have been his documentaries on Indian Peace Keeping Forces and the Indian diaspora in unexpected lands. His books are "Reflections of an Indian Muslim", "The Last Brahmin Prime Minister" and "Being The Other: The Muslim in India"Saeed Naqvi was a Parvin Fellow at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, Princeton University, US.
